Proposal and Marketing Coordinator - Next Ridgeline Company

Visual Communication Specialist I Design Expert

Nina Wilson is a Proposal & Marketing Coordinator at Next Ridgeline Company, supporting proposal development, marketing initiatives, content creation, and visual communications. With experience across design, communications, project coordination, and digital content, she enjoys bringing different pieces together to create materials that are clear, organized, and engaging.

Nina earned dual degrees in Visual Communication Design and History from the University of Evansville, graduating Cum Laude. Her experience includes coordinating creative projects, developing digital and print communications, supporting marketing campaigns, managing content, and contributing to user-focused design. Across these experiences, she has worked with different teams, managed competing priorities and deadlines, and developed a strong attention to organization, consistency, and detail.

At Next Ridgeline, Nina applies her design and communication background to proposal and marketing efforts, helping organize detailed information and turn it into clear, accessible materials.
